Have a 115 Mercury 4 stroke EFI on a Lund Fisherman. Good on fuel and trolls down to around 2 mph. Boat fully loaded with three fisherman will run in the mid to low 40s with a 17 pitch prop. Only issue was making oil when I first got the boat. You can do a search and read numerous articles on this issue.

2003 Mercury 115 EFI
For the last 20 years I have had boats with an Inboard Diesel. And my last Outboard was a 1986 Evinrude which was @50:1 Mix. OK, I have seen articles in boat magazines regarding outboard motors over the years and paid little attention, but the 16ft boat I have just bought has a Mercury 115 ELPTO. I know it is 2 stroke and has an Oil Tank on the side and perhaps may have this system where under ...

I have a 2003 mercury 115 4 stroke efi that is losing power at higher demand and load. It feels like a misfire at high rpm. Weeks of troubleshooting has determined that the 1 crankshaft position sensor voltage is putting out double the spec ie: 24v @ idle (850 rpm) vs the good one @ 11v (spec is [email protected] rpm). The bad cps keeps doubling its spec value as rpm increasing even reading overlimit on the tester at high rpm.

2003. Mercury 115 ELPTO - YBW
