In Sherrie Turkle's TED talk Connected, but Alone?, she claims a lot about how she feels about technology and what she believes that it is doing to us as humans and as individuals interacting with one another. The main idea of Turkle's TED talk was that we, as individuals and as a group, are letting technology take us places that we don't necessarily want to go.

Sherrie Turkle's TED Talk "Connected, but Alone?" - Summary

Alone is an American reality television series on History. It follows the self-documented daily struggles of 10 individuals (seven paired teams in season 4) as they survive alone in the wilderness for as long as possible using a limited amount of survival equipment. With the exception of medical check-ins, the participants are isolated from each other and all other humans.

You are Not Alone is a psychological thriller about a woman who finds herself in the wrong place at the wrong time. It only took 22 seconds to dramatically alter Shay Miller's life. While she is book smart (and continuously records statistics and data), she is not people smart which leads her to be easily manipulated and taken advantage of.
