Annoying : NPR

Two crackerjack science journalists from NPR look at why some things (and some people!) drive us crazy. It happens everywhere—offices, schools, even your own backyard. Plus, seemingly anything can trigger it—cell phones, sirens, bad music, constant distractions, your boss, or even your...

Annoying Feature #1 - Why Our Expectations are so Bad ...

review 1: Annoying: The Science of What Bugs Us by Joe Palca was an enjoyable book that I personally really liked. It is a nonfiction book that adds a little humor in neurology. The book is about scientists quest to find out how to scale what truly bugs us through testing their hypothesis. Throughout the book there are tests performed that I was satisfied with because of their accuracy and ...

Annoying: The Science of What Bugs Us is an interesting little book about what gets under our skin. I was heartened to learn that there are real reasons behind my annoyance with loud cell phone talkers...it's not just an irrational annoyance. The same goes for other pet peeves. This is an enjoyable read but not very substantive.

Annoying science - American Psychological Association

This is the way lots of our mind works. A lot of the intuitions we're getting are just incorrect. So, that's kind of annoying feature number one. Want to put it in the context of the other annoying features you're going to see. The rest of this lecture is going to be focused on three more annoying features that mess us up all the time.
