Jacques Derrida's concepts of difference and deconstruction have raised questions among philosophers about feminism and a woman's "being-in-the-world." While some believe that true feminism is an inversion of the male-dominated power structure, others believe that embracing feminine mystique is the key to overcoming inequalities.

Deconstruction and Feminist Literary Theory

Much contemporary feminist theory continues to see itself as freeing women from patriarchal oppression so that they may realize their own inner truth. To be told by postmodern thinkers such as Jacques Derrida that the very possibility of such a truth must be submitted to the process of deconstruction thus seems to present a serious challenge to the feminist project.
