The state could then use computer models to predict their noise at various distances, Kimmell said. Such modeling is standard practice for facilities that generate a lot of noise, such as power plants that use fossil fuels, Kimmell said. But he said the state, to date, has mainly left such testing to local permitting boards.

Port Manteaux churns out silly new words when you feed it an idea or two. Enter a word (or two) above and you'll get back a bunch of portmanteaux created by jamming together words that are conceptually related to your inputs.. For example, enter "giraffe" and you'll get back words like "gazellephant" and "gorilldebeest".
