Rojan Dizon doesn't mind staying in the shadows, because he's got things to hide. Things like being a pain-mage, with the forbidden power to draw magic from pain. But he can't hide forever. Because when Rojan stumbles upon the secrets lurking in the depths of the Pit, the fate of Mahala will depend on him using his magic.

I was fascinated by the ideas of 'Fade To Black', the first in a series of books about Rojan Dizon written by Francis Knight, before I started reading. The city of Mahala is built upwards instead of outwards, with layers closer to the top, closer to the sunshine, indicating higher class.

Fade to Black by Francis Knight was an interesting new world, but it did feel a little rough around the edges. I am looking forward to seeing how Ms. Knight continues to develop her world after the events of this book and will definitely be checking out the second installment. Rojan Dizon is our main character.

~~A Rojan Dizon Novel: Fade to Black 1 by Francis Knight ...~~

I enjoyed FADE TO BLACK a lot. Rojan Dizon is pretty much your standard Mat Cauthon (from Wheel of Time) template - roguish, out for himself, ultimately moral. He does become more heroic over the course of the book, but it's believable - it's because he cares for specific people (his niece, the people that help him find her) and because he's a ...
