The older (original) Miele tabs did a great job, and I only used 1/2 tab per wash. Then Miele changed the formulation and I noticed I was getting a lot of suds, even with 1/2 tab (see pics in link). It actually made so much suds, that it activated the overflow protection in the bottom of the unit, and a Miele tech had to reset it.

A few Miele cords reach 46 feet. Winding a cord that long can get tiring. Miele canister vacuums use a cord-control system that winds the cord for you with a one-button push system to activate automatic winding. Miele upright vacuums use a quick-release clip that releases the entire cord at once rather than an internal system.

Ahead of the fight Miele missed weight, making this one a catchweight affair. Not that Budd appeared to need any extra motivation, but it was there, as was a percentage of Miele's purse. The fight opened up with the ex-champ holding the center of the cage. Miele circled, as Budd employed kicks and single strikes for the most part.
