Idle Adjustment Screw Cleaning; For G200, 4ZC1, and 4ZD1 Engines: Isuzu engines seem to pull some of oil through the crank case ventilation system when they are run hard. This oil is pulled into the intake piping and thrown onto the throttle body, where it gums up on the end of the idle adjustment screw.

I have a 1991 Trooper w/ the 4ZE1 engine and could use some help identifying a problem/noise. The engine is currently making a fairly loud rattling/tapping/knocking sound under acceleration/load. It hadn't been running rough. I was just driving along at 35mph when the noise started quite suddenly. I thought I'd check the valves adjustment first.

ive just finished doing a head gasket on a 4ze1 in a jackaroo. i cant work out how your meant to set the dizzy up. i presume it will be something like set number one on tdc then point the rotor button on the dizzy to 12 oclock and push dizzy into head, it will then rotate round to #1cyl due to the cross cut gears.

The turbo used in this kit is quite large, and is not recommended for stock engines. The turbo lag would be really noticeable. It is more suited to the larger displacement 4ZD1 and 4ZE1 engines (2300cc and 2600cc) or the smaller G series engines that have been heavily modified to increase airflow to get this turbo spooling up more quickly.
