Plug model totally depends on the model year/serial number range of the engine(s). Most likely your engines will take NGK BPR6EFS, or a TR6IX. Late model MerCruiser 350 Mag MPI and 496's use different plugs. NOTE: Iridium plugs have a fragile electrode end; you must be very careful when gapping this type of plug, or it will break off.

You will have to disconnect the fuel hose from the fuel pump and or filter depending on your type of engine. (MerCruiser or Volvo) This is simple just follow the fuel hose from the tank to the filter or pump. Note how the fuel valve is located close to the engine side of the fitting to reduce the chance of fuel spilling into the bilge.

was bought new in Denver. When I try to start the engine I have to turn it over for several seconds to get the engine started, when I say several seconds I mean like 15 to 20. I can hold the key and let the engine turn over about three or four times and let go and it will crank but I have to use this procedure a dozen times before she'll fire.
