Low testosterone, also called hypogonadism, can cause a man to lose his fertility, body mass, self-confidence, and energy. A urologist can help diagnose the condition, and explain the treatment options for low testosterone.. Testosterone is a hormone produced primarily by the testes and its levels are controlled by a feedback loop between the hypothalamus and pituitary gland.

What Is a Urologist?

However, if you have a urologic condition, the urologist will be at the head of your medical team. Sometimes a patient will be referred to a urologist by another health care professional, as Valerie was. But often people go straight to a urologist for treatment. Your primary care doctor may be able to treat some minor urologic issues.
